Then he would abolish the personal property tax as it is now laid and would leave to each community the decision as to how to make up the remaining necessary re-enues. As choices he offered a habita-tion tax, income tax and license tax. New York, he said, should by all means have its own system of taxation for local purposes.

In lieu of the present tax on personal property Mr. Morawetz outlined a scheme of imposing a habitation tax which he thought would be fairer and more affective that more effective that, any income tan levied according to present methods His idea was that every man should be taxed according to the kind of dwell-ing he occupies, whether it be a sepa-rate house, an apartment or a hotel, and this tax would be levied just the same whether or not the citizen might hap-pen to own the property or merely paid rent there.

Tax According to One's Rent.

In the case of a separate dwelling the amount of tax would be levied according to the assessed valuation of the property. In the case of an apartment house the proportion of tax to be paid by each tenant would depend upon the amount of rent he paid and the amount of tax would be according to the assessed valuation of the property other words, if sixteen families pied an apartment house the sum total of the taxes paid by each tenant would be the same as if one man occupied the entire uilding Furthermore men with families would not be compelled to pay the same amounts as men without them, even if they occupied the same amount of space and paid the same rent. Mr. Morawets "Experience seems to suggest that the people cannot expect to be relieved from the hydron of toyallor or toyallor of toyallor of toyallor or toyallor apply the habitation tax in the case of those whose dwelling places and the those whose dwelling places and the that payment of taxes would work at
